Once upon a time, there lived a bee in a beautiful garden. She was very hardworking. Every day she flew from flower to flower and collected nectar. She knew that during the rainy season, flowers would be fewer. So, she worked hard from morning to evening and stored honey in her hive.

In the same garden, there lived a butterfly. She was very lazy and careless. She spent her time flying around, enjoying the sunshine and resting on flowers. When she saw the bee working hard, she laughed at her. She said, “Why do you work so much? Life is beautiful. Enjoy it like me. ”

The bee replied, “I am saving food for difficult days. You should also prepare for the future.”

But the butterfly said, “There is plenty of time. I will think about it later.”

Days passed. Soon the rainy season arrived. The sky was cloudy, and flowers became few. There was not much food in the garden. The butterfly felt cold and hungry. She could not find nectar anywhere. She then realized her mistake.

The butterfly went to the bee and said, “Dear bee, please help me. I am hungry. I did not prepare for the rainy days.”

The bee was kind. She shared some honey with the butterfly and said, “Hard work is always important.”

The butterfly thanked the bee. She learned an important lesson. From that day, she decided to work hard and plan.
